

The page contains six identical musical staves, each consisting of five horizontal lines. These staves are arranged vertically down the page, providing a template for writing musical notation for children.